Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

The President is on his third or fourth fishing trip since he was inaugurated. When he is out somewhere on the ocean, it does seem as if the whole country breathed a bit easier. For a brief period business men cease to worry while the President is fishing. The only anxiety they have is that some of his bureau chiefs in his absence will inaugurate another experiment, row among themselves, or make a billion dollar blunder. The kind of crew that mans the ship of state nowadays needs somebody in the first mate's job with a wider vision of his country than that of Jim Farley of Tammany. And make no mistake, and do not be misled by the formal ranking of cabinet members, Jim Farley is second in command of the Washington administration.

It is due to Farley that some 250,000 Federal employees are not employed under civil service rules. The chief requirement of those who are exempted from civil service, is not whether they are qualified for their jobs, though as a matter of fact many of them are, but whether they have been good Democrats and supporters of President Roosevelt. Now it seems, having emptied the nation's postoffice of all Republicans, the President is ready to follow Farley's advice and bring all second, third and fourth class postmasters under civil service so that there will hereafter not be that rotation in office that has been a curse to the postal service. Even though we realize that this is merely casting a Democratic anchor to the winward, providing a large and grateful following of true Democrats in office who will work for the return of the party, in event it should be expelled from power, it will be a good thing for the country. But its benefit to the Democratic party can easily be over-estimated. Contented postmasters appointed for life will not forever feel and express gratitude. They will sink back into the civil service routine and forget in large measure the hand of largess.

If these postmasters should prove a thorn in the elephant's side, however, some future Republican Congress can easily revamp the civil service rules and throw out the incumbents, replacing them with tried and loyal Republicans. The hoary antiquity of the tradition: "to the victors belong the spoils" will probably never be wholly eliminated in national politics.

We don't think Inspector Quinn of the California Traffic Patrol received the punishment he deserved. He was tried before a representative of the state personnel board for hit-running and driving while intoxicated. The public was excluded from the trial. He was found guilty of smashing into a parked car and driving off without complying with law which provides that he make himself known to the owner of the damaged car. He was not found guilty of drunkenness. The punishment was a demotion rather than dismissal. We think that man should have been dismissed and his license to drive revoked. We believe he got off much easier than would have been the case had he been regularly tried and convicted in the courts of justice.

Fortunately, the Quinn case is rare in the record of the California Traffic patrol. With a force far too few to cover adequately the highways of California their efficnentcy is matter of common knowledge and pride to all thoughtful citizens. With rare exceptions they use tact, courtesy and adamant firmness in dealing with all road users. Even the worst traffic offenders who keep a civil tongue in their head are dealt with courteously.

No estimate can be made of the number of accidents, of tragedies prevented through the vigilance of the California highway patrol. It is precisely because we rspect and admire the high standard maintained by the corps that we regret as in the case of Quinn, any action that smacks of favoritism or special privilege, which tends to lower that high standard.

N. C.-ALLEGHANY GAME

Owing to a rainy cold evening there was not as large an attendance of basket ball fans at the game between Nevada City and Alleghany Saturday as was anticipated. Only one game was played with the score 34 to 46 in favor of Nevada City. Both teams made good records several boys on each side making fine scores.

GUN "BURNED" 25 YEARS AGO RETRIEVED

In the arresting of S. F. Trevis, deer slayer on the South Yuba river, below Washington recently a Winchester 38 rifle was confiscated. When brought before Justice of the Peace Walter L. Mobley in Nevada City the judge recognized the gun as one he had loaned to a man while he owned a half interest in the firm of McKillican and Mobley at North Bloomfield 25 years ago.

A short time after loaning the rifle the man's cabin burned and when Mr. Mobley asked for his gun the fellow stated it had burned in the fire. Deputy Sheriff Carl Larsen also recognized the gun as he had made some repairs on it.

All confiscated guns are turned over to the state, but this gun will be kept by Judge Mobley as it is his property, and in good condition.

BOARD AWARDS CONTRACT FOR HI SCHOOL ADDITION

The Board of Education Nevada High School District opened bids for the construction of new high school addition, and gymnasium Saturday afternoon. The bid was in three parts —Bid I calling for bids an mechanical construction (heating and the plumbing); Bid II, electrical; Bid III, general construction, being every thing not included in bids I and II.

Three bids under each classification were received, the low bids being as follows:

I. Heating and plumbing, M. J. Reeves & Co. 954 Natoma St., San Francisco, $12,699.

II. Electrical, United Electric Cons. Co., San Francisco. $3,147.

III. (Gneral Contractor) Rollin E. Meyer, 735 Portola Drive, San Francisco, 047,184. Total $63,030.

As the above low bids were within the limitations prescribed by District funds on hand for construction, amounting totally, to $77,000., the Board awarded the bids to the above mentioned firms, subject to the approval of the Federal Administration of Public Works. Two of the foregoing mentioned firms, Rollin E. Meyer, General Contractor; and United Electric Construction Company, Electric, were also low bidders and awardees of construction bids of the same classification on the Nevada City Elementary School building.

Others bidders on the proposal were as follows:

Bid 1. Mechanical. Jas. F. Pinkerton, San Francisco, $12,988. Scott & Co., 243 Minna St., San Francisco, $13,990.

Bid II. Electrical, Spencer Electrical Co., 2059 Webster St., Oakland, $3,793. M. C. Nicklassen & Co., 353 Downey St., San Francisco, $3,530.

Bid III. General, Moore and Roberts, 693 Mission St., San Francisco, $51,000. Gould and Kane, 1665 Thousand Oaks Blvd., Berkeley, $53,076.

The confirmation by PWA officials of the above bid awards is taken for granted—though the consummation of this step, and preparation of contracts and other instruments required under federal procedure requires least several days time. It is anticipated that the contracts can be executed in time for work to start in about one week's time.

The foregoing marks the culmination of months of effort on the part of the local Board of Education to obtain acceptable bids for the construction of the high school addition, gymnasium, this being the third time the proposal has been advertised. It finally became necessary to revise completely the structural spectfications of the building—though the general plan of the buildings, and their scope, have been changed but little. The total funds available for the building amount to $77,000, of which $31,000, is supplied by government grant, and $46,000 by proceeds of bonds voted by the district.

With a $117,000 elementary school building, entirely new, work on which will start Monday next, and a $77,000 high school class room addition and gymnasium work to start probably within ten days, Nevada City certainly has much to feel proud of.

A motion was adopted to instruct the officers of the association to proceed to incorporate the association on a non-profit basis.

Jane Barton Coming To Talk Here On Home Making Adventure

When Jane Barton arrives at Nevada City to open the Annual Homecraft Institute under the auspices of The Nevada City Nugget and Pacific Rural Press, housewives will have the opportunity to enjoy a three day program made up entirely in answer to requests from home makers throughout the state. Jane Barton is celebrating the fourth year of these popular Homecraft Institutes by baking a birthday cake in special honor of the occasion. The Nevada Theatre has been secured for the meeting which will take place on April 22, 23 and 24.

Jane Barton's position in the home craft world is unique. Every year she speaks to thousands and thousands of California home makers. For those who reside away from the larger centers of population she brings the latest information about economical and up to date methods of home making. During the year she receives thousands upon thousands of letters requesting information ranging from information about the best form of domestic water systems to requests for programs and recipes for club and church dinners.

Souvenir recipe booklets will be distributed to the audience every day and the many dishes that Mrs. Barton is to make will be given away at the close of each session.

Said one woman who attended the Homecraft Institute last year for the first time. "A person sort of gets tired of three meals a day and ideas sort of run out. It's a pleasure to discover that after all cooking and home making can comprise such a nice variety of things. It peps one up to be present and to watch the joy and enthusiasm with which you move about your tasks in the Homecraft Kitchen."

Every woman has some problem in home economics that is perplexing her. The Homecraft Institute this years will assist her in solving the problem whether it be the question of whether or not silk stockings should be rinsed the second and last time in cold water or as to what is the most suitable method of financing a new home. Set the dates aside, April 22, 23 and 24 and jot down the questions that you want Jane Barton to answer. Admission is absolutely free.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED, TWO DEER CONFISCATED

Warren Hassler and Beverly Haskins who were arrested at Washington on Friday by Game Warden Earl Hiscox and deputy sheriff Carl T. Larsen for possession of an alleged illegaly killed deer were arraigned before Judge W. L. Mobley Friday where they plead guilty to th charge. The deer was taken by the officers and given to the county hospital where, in the form of nicely cooked venison it is being enjoyed by the inmates of the hospital. Judge Mobley imposed a fine of $150 and $100 on the offenders respectively. Hassler turned his automobile over to the court as security for the payment of the fines. The officers took the two men back to their home in Washington.

The officers continued on to Diamond Creek and there arrested Douglas McDougald and Walter Netzel for possession of a deer which they had killed. The two men were brought to Nevada City and lodged in the county jail for the night. Saturday they were arraigned before Judge Mobley where they plead guilty and waived time for prououncing judgment. Judge Mobley imposed a fine of $150 on McDougald who admitted killing the deer and a $100 fine on Netzel.

Netzel statd that he could and would pay the fine and was released on his own recognizance on provision that he would pay the fine this week. McDougald is in jail. He must pay the fine or remain in jail one day for every $2 of the fine which would amount to 75 days in jail.

ROBERT NYE STATES STAND AS CANDIDATE

Mr. H. H. Leete,
Editor, Nevada City Nugget.

In response to your request for a statement regarding my candidacy for City Councilman, will say, that I have never sought a public office but consented to serve when appointed.

I have been a resident of Nevada county most of the time since 1905, following mining engineering. For over twenty years a tax payer in the county and for nearly six years a tax payer in Nevada City.

For seven years at McGill, Nevada as house agent for the Nevada Con. Copper Co. I had charge of 550 houses with their accompanying problems of construction and maintenance, together with the streets, sewers, etc.

Since my appointment to the council I have studied the city's financial position as shown in reports, have made frequent inspection of work in progress, alone and in company with other members of the council and met with them in frequent meetings. I have found the work interesting and if the voters of the city wish I shall be glad to continue to give my best efforts to the city business.

I am opposed to changing the closing hours for the saloons, and in favor of the strict enforcement of all laws and regulations governing the liquor business.

The property tax rate is fixed by state law and the council cannot raise it. This tax will not more than pay the necessary running expenses of the city. The profits from the sale of water is carrying the city's part of the various work projects, such as the city hall, city park and street and sidewalk work. To cut the water rate would necessitate the curtailment of some of these projects and the abandonment of others.

ROBERT NYE.

GOLD FLAT QUILTING CLUB

The Quilting Club of Gold Flat met at the home of Mrs. Jay Roberts last Wednesday. There was a small attendance of members due to so much sickness.

A delicious luncheon was enjoyed at one o'clock after which the group assembled to quilt. Mrs. Roberts had just completed a beautiful star quilt and placed it in the frame, and it was a pleasure to work on it.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lacy Jones of Gold Flat at which time blocks will be cut for another quilt.

The window display in the Nugget office last week was in honor of the 24th birthday of Camp Fire Girls and drew much interst from the townspeople and visitors. Misses Virginia Carney and Bonnie Flint decorated the window.

It Won't Happen Again

All of last week's pyrotechnic display over the border blockade by Los Angeles police has served only to illustrate a fact that was obvious at the start.

Local officers of any one community simply have not authority to impede the free flow of citizens from one state to another.

In other words, if California's problem is to keep out indigents, bums and hobos, it is a matter for the state as a whole, and even the state, if it does choose to act, will have to watch its step lest it violate the U. S. Constitution.

All this should have been clear to the proper authorities in the beginning. Attorney-General Webb's branding of the blockade as unconstitutional, the Federal District Court's dismissal of a damage suit on the grounds it was not under U. S. jurisdiction, Police Chief Davis' flat refusal to recognize Webb's ruling—these things built up the affair to the proportions of a national joke and a California calamity.

Perhaps the whole thing was permitted to drag on because it seemed too ridiculous at first to take seriously. The same mistake probably won't be made again soon.

The Lamson Case

David Lamson's third trial is over, now, after three long years, and whatever else you may think of this most historic case, one conclusion is inescapable.

California justice moves too slowly—much too sluggishly.

It was nine weeks ago that the trial just completed began. Trial number two lasted twelve weeks, one of the longest in the history of California jurisprudence. Advocates of more speedy justice will find food for thought in this, the chronology of the case:

On May 30, 1933, Allene Lamson's body was found. On August 1, the first trial began. On September 16, the case went to the jury, and on September 27, Lamson was sentenced to hang. He entered San Quentin on October 7.

On February 26, 1934, the appeal was filed. Not until October 13 did the Supreme Court grant a new trial. On November 14 Lamson was removed from San Quentin, and it was February 18, 1935, before they got around to starting the second trial.

After the jury disagreed in May of the same year, there was a delay until last Jenuary 27, when the third trial began. Now, at the end of this one, it is late March of the third year following original arraignment.

In England, say, the whole procedure of trial, appeal, disagreement and retrial would have been whisked through in a third of the time. It can be done. America, and California, must learn to speed the wheels of justice.

Wishful Thinking

I wish I might compose the stuff
Our politicians write;
I'd start a speech at early dawn
And have it done by night.
I'd pad the lines with jokes and quips
And innuendoes too;
That speech would fairly scintillate
When I had rushed it through.

Of course, I'd use terse, compact words—
One syllable, no more,
In telling how the fathers docked
At Plymouth's rubbled door;
And then with flail like jointed words
I'd lash my thoughts along,
Till in great spurts of eloquence
They swayed each passing throng.

I'd make my speech quite flexible,
To suit each time and place
Of party pomp and circumstance
With equal power and grace;
One might declaim it at the fair
In lightsome tones and gay,
Or mid the cacophonous blasts
Of Independence Day.

This speech would be the only one
That folk would have to hear,
Or think about or analyze
Through all the campaign year;
And now, considering this fact,
My boldness grows apace;
I swear, this speech of mine would be
A boon to all the race!

THREE C. M. T. CAMPS IN CALIF. JULY, AUG.

The War Department announces that three C. M. T. camps will be held in California, at Monterey, Fort Winfield Scott, and at Fort MacArthur from July 6 to August 3. The enrollment of students for these camps will be under the direction of the local representatives of the Military Training Camps Association.

Colonel Troup Miller, under whose supervision the camp at Monterey will be conducted, stated "the training in these camps is beneficial to the students morally as well as physically. The outdoor sports and regular living build stronger bodies and the group training stimulates teamwork and consideration for others. I anticipate with pleasure the part I am to have in this summer's activities."

Attendance at these camps is voluntary and involves no furture obligation for service. All expenses are paid by the government, including transportation, food, clothing and medical attention.

RETAIL TRADE HIGHER IN FEB.

Volume of industrial production in the Twelfth District was slightly lower in February than in January whereas little change is usual. Retail trade increased, while railway freight traffic declined, after allowance for seasonal factors. Number of workers employed was the same in mid-February as in mid-January, although a small rise ordinarily takes place.

In contrast with the United States as a whole, value of building permits in cities of this district rose in February to the highest figure since July 1931. The repair work; residential permits were the same as in January. Although new contract awards for public works were much smaller in February than the near record total in January, construction work on projects of that class continued at a high level.

Daily average lumber production was larger in February than in January, but the increase was smaller than the average of other recent years. The adjusted index, however, at 71 per cent of the 1923-1925 average, remained close to the highest point recorded since the summer of 130. Output of cement declined from the unusually large January volume. Petroleum output decreased sharply from 103 per cent of the 1923-125 average in January to 89 per cent in February, a result of voluntary curtailment. Production of refined mineral oils was slightly lower than in January. The adjusted index of slaughter advanced from 98 to 100 per cent of the 1923-1925 average, while the flour production index declined.

Value of daily average sales of department, apparel, and furniture stores in this district was about the same in February as in January. Freight carloadings did not increase by the usual seasonal amount, largely because the movement of lumber by rail did not show the customary expansion. Intercoastal traffic through the Panama Canal rose sharply as a result of increased lumber shipments.

Favorable weather for growth of crops and of forage on livestock ranges followed heavy rains throughout February. Present condition of crops and livestock generally is good and the outlook for irrigation water and range forage during the spring and summer is excellent. Quotations for farm products were moderately lower in mid-March than in mid-February.

In the four weeks ending March 18, district banking reserves were affected to a considerably greater extent than in other recent weeks by operations of the United States Treasury. Treasury disbursements substantially exceeded collections in this district in the first three weeks of that period. Those additions of funds were more than offset by a large net excess of Treasury collections in the week ending March 18. Withdrawal of funds from the district by the Treasury during that week resulted from unusually large cash payments for government securities issued in mid-March and from income tax collections. To meet these demands, member banks reduced their balances at the reserve bank substantially and also drew considerable sums from their deposits with eastern correspondents.

Largely because of increased holdings of government securities, a result of mid-March Treasury financing, total loans and investments of reporting member banks rose to the highest level this year in the week of March 18, following steady decreases since early in January. The increase also reflected some expansion in security loans to brokers and in commercial loans. Real estate loans increased only slightly and loans on securities to customers other than brokers declined slightly. Adjusted demand deposits were somewhat larger. Turnover of bank deposits was unusually high during this period, partly because of the customary heavy withdrawal of demand deposits early in March when many depositors in California temporarily reduce "solvent credits" in order to decrease assessment for personal property taxes.

Twelfth District income tax payments to the Federal Government, totaled almost 24 million dollars during the first twenty days of March this year, an increase of 43 per cent over poyments in the corresponding period of 1935.

EQUALIZATION BOARD WANTS TO UNLOAD LIQUOR

SACRAMENTO, March 30.—Creation of a state liquor commission to relieve the State Board of Equalization of its present duty of administering the alcoholic beverage control Act was emphatically endorsed today by R. E. Collins, Chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

"It is a physical impossibility for members of the State Board of Equalization to continue administering both the tax laws and the liquor control act," said Collins.

"An initiative proposal to create a State Alcoholic Beverage Commission is now being drafted by the Senate and Assembly Committees on Liquor Regulation and will be submitted to the voters at the November election.

"The Board of Equalization is essentially a tax board and is charged with the tremendous responsibility of administering taxes and licenses yielding more than $160,000,000 annually.

It is manifestly impossible for the members of the board to give the time and thought required to the serious tax problems now confronting the state when two-thirds of their energy is expended in dealing with the multiplicity of problems involved in liquor control.

"The board is doing the best it can with a bad situation, but liquor should be transferred to a separate state agency, which can give its full time to the job, at the earliest opporutnity. I intend, therefore, to support the initiative proposal which will be submitted to the voters by the Senate and Assembly liquor committees, and I am confident my fellow board members will likewise support the measure."

FIVE WPA CAMPS WILL CLOSE BY JUNE 30

Gene Kenyon, director of WPA camps in the Sacramento area announced Saturday that five camps are to be closed. The camps listed to be vacated June 30 house 950 men. Among them are, Nevada City camp, May 25. Two camps, Spring Creek, Nevada county, and Sutter Basin, Sutter county, were closed in March. It is expected the men will be employed in agriculture and other work and closing the camps will incur no hardships on the men. State Fire Warden William F. Sharp, in charge of Nevada City camp stated this morning he did not know what the future plans of the camp will be until he receives word from headquarters. It is situated at Nevada City's southern limits.

Mrs. Bolger is Mrs. Milton Schiffner's mother and has been visiting her in San Francisco for the past two months. News of the floods in Pennsylvania greatly alarmed Mrs. Bolger as her family were in an area near which were twelce feet of flood water but she could not return to them as she would not have been allowed to pass through the flood area. However she has heard from them and is able to enjoy her visit in California after learning that her family is safe and well.

WHY ABE LINCOLN GREW A BEARD

An eleven year old girl promoted Mr. Lincoln's beard in the midst of the 1860 presidential campaign and proof of her success along this ultra-modern line of endeavor may be seen by any visitor to Washington, D. C. The little girl was Grace Bedell, whose home was Westfield, Chautauqua county, New York. The episode was brought to the attention of the writers who are preparing articles on the Capital for the American Guide, the government's forth coming travel handbook.

In 1860 Mr. Lincoln was clean-shaven and more than a trifle gaunt. None of his masculine supporters guessed that his rather emaciated appearance would have any effect on the voters—all male in those days—but the ladies had a better understanding of popular psychology. Probably after having heard a good deal of talk on the subject at the sewing circles and elswhere in her village, Miss Bedell wrote Mr. Lincoln on October 15, 1860, the following letter:

"Dear Sir: My father has just come home from the fair and brought home your picture and Mr. Hamlin's. I am a little girl only eleven years old, but want you should be President of the United States very much so I hope you won't think me very bold to write to such a great man as you are. Have you any little girls about as large as I am? If so give them my love and tell her to write to me if you cannot answer this letter. I have got four brothers and part of them will vote for you anyway and if you will let your whiskers grow I will try and get the rest of them to vote for you. You would look a great deal better for your face is so thin. All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you and then you would be President. My father is going to vote for you and if I was a man I would vote for you to but I will try and get everyone to vote for you that I can. I think that rail fence around your picture makes it look very pretty. I have got a little baby sister she is nine weeks old and is just as cunning as can be. When you answer, address your letter direct to Grace Bedell, Westfield, Chautauqua County, New York.

"I must not write anymore answer this letter right off. Goodby, Grace Bedell."

Mr. Lincoln saw the point and started in immediately to raise a crop of whiskers, though he felt rather ashamed of himself for doing it, as is indicated in the reply which he sent his youthful girl advisor on October 19:

"My dear little Miss: Your very agreeable letter of the 15th is received.

"I regret the necessity of saying I have no daughters, I have three sons—one seventeen, one nine, and one seven years of age. They, with their mother, constitute my whole family.

"As to the whiskers, having never worn any, do you think people would call it a piece of silly affectation if I were to begin it now? Your very sincere well wisher, A. Lincoln."

These letters are now on display in a little cabinet at the Lincoln Museum.

Gene McGeorge of Sacramento was a Nevada City visitor Saturday.

APPRECIATION OF HENRY HUCKINS IS EXPRESSED

(By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE)

NORTH SAN JUAN, March 28.—Henry Huckins is dead.

Lovable, genial Henry Huckins whom the North San Juan Ridge claimed as one of its favorite sons. A neighbor in word and deed, a hero to the children, generous hearted, and among the first to answer the call of his country in the Spanish-American war.

His benefaction to the civic and philanthrophic problems in North San Juan are too numerous to recount and many, many more are totally unknown except to the recipients thereof. oday the American flag for which he bravely fought droops at half mast. Business houses are closed and the people of this little mountain town suffer a great feeling of loss.

When the San Juan school was destroyed it was Henry Huckins who determindedly set the wheels in motion to provide a bigger and better school. And today the worshipping children and grateful parents closed the doors of that building and sadly paid their respects at the bier of the man who always had their interests uppermost in his mind and heart.

Henry Huckins was born in North San Juan on April 14, 1871. He went to school here and later made his living on the Ridge in different activities with which his versatile nature assisted him. He entered the Jones Memorial Hospital two weeks ago and underwent an operation for an ailment of long standing. But despite a brave fight for his life he failed to rally and passed quietly away Monday evening.

At two o'clock Thursday afternoon in the little Methodist church in North San Juan the services were conducted under the auspices of the Scottish Rotes with Rev. H. H. Buckner officiating. The veterans of the Spanish American war pair him tribute and the school children attended in a body. At three-thirty all that is mortal of Henry Huckins was interred on a sunny slope of the beautiful little cemetery where rest the many pioneers who have gone before him over the Great Divide.

SAFEWAY TO LAUNCH POULTRY, DAIRY DRIVE

Dairymen and poultry producers, as well as consumers, will reap the benefits of the next intensive week-long Farmer-Consumer sales campaign to be launched by Safeway Stores April 17. The sale will extend from April 17 to 25, inclusive, and has been planned to stimulate consumption of milk, butter, eggs and cheese. according to Joe Wilhoite, Safeway manager at Nevada City.

These farmer-consumer drives on selected food products were inaugurated by Safeway for the double purpose of aiding both the producer and consumer, said Wilhoite and have been vitally helpful in relieving congestd markets and conferring greater food values on consumers.

"In selecting dairy and poultry products for the forthcoming sale, Safeway recognized that dairymen and poultry raisers represent a tremendous proportion of rural American," Wilhoite stated. "Their operations are of great importance in practically every state of the Union; furthermore, their products contain essential food requirements without a proper percentage of which public health would suffer. This is especially true in the case of children."

In a similar campaign staged by Safeway last year, cheese was not included, but it is to be bracketed with milk, butter and eggs this year because it is a logically related item.

"Safeway's Homemakers" Bureau Oakland, will cooperate with the fortcoming sales event by mailing to housewives upon receipt of a stamped self addressed envelope, special tested receipes calling for the use of milk, butter, eggs and cheese, Wilhoite announced. "These recipes, of course, will be free for the asking he added.

Colley, confectioner, is carrying a fine line of Easter bunnies, featuring Mr. and Mrs. Bunny with Easter hats, their children, tiny chicks; tempting baskets gaily decorated with candies and celophane. The big bunny to be given away with the one who draws the lucky number in purchasing Easter dyes is also receiving liberal attention.

HAROLD LLOYD IN THE MILKY WAY SHOWN TUES. WED.

Harold Lloyd is up to new tricks, in "The Milky Way" which opens Tuesday at the Nevada Theatre,

The spectacled farceur is as always inimitable. As a timid milkman who is pushed into fistic fame when he ducks the blows of the middleweight champion in a brawl, Lloyd gave everybody a splendidly hilarfous time.

Two fierce pugilists proceed to try to knock the comedian's block off. In the assortment of footwork that Lloyd uses to escape every dance step is introduced from the tribal stomp of angered aborigines to the bubble-csahing flutters of Sally Rand.

"The Milky Way" is insanely merry. It is guaranteed to give every funny-bone a good workout. The gags in this Paramount picture are irresistible.

Fine work is done by the supporting cast, which is composed of Adolphe Menjou, Verree Teasdale, Helen Mack, William Gargan, Dorothy Wilson and Lionel Stander. Leo McCarey has done an exceptional directing job.
